

CASE STUDY #2

Name of Article	The case of the missing dietitian
Overview of the case and problem	misinformation, false, uneducated and unsafe information in the nutrition field leading to clients, themselves and clubs at risk.
Identification and analysis of the risk(s)	uneducated staff members giving inaccurate, unsafe and subjective recommendations in nutrition to their clients.
Categorise and Determine the level of the risk(s)	low to high level. without an educated appraisal from a professional you can be leading your clients down a dangerous path and leave yourself, client and club at risk and liability
Identify how the risk could be controlled	On site dietitians for all health and nutrition advice and/or concerns eliminating the possibilities of harm and liability
Evaluation of how the risk / situation was handled	New passing laws to prevent non-sanctioned practitioners from providing nutrition counseling.
Feedback on the outcome / what would you have done	Introducing and employing staff dietitians has been a crucial positivity for the industry to avoid and eliminate any uncertainty and ill advised nutrition advice to clients and reduces the risk and liability for all personnel and clubs. I would also train staff on this knowledge and any extensive additional training they require to be up to industry standards.
