Hi Liam,

Where we are at the moment is with the extra garage width, we've had a good look at the siting and as it is the house is to far across to the left side of the block, we class the right side as non use if this makes sense. If the 1355mm on right side is reduced to one meter and the entry is reduced to 1650mm that gives us 5950mm internal measurement for the garage this is critical to us, It also gives us close to two meters outside the laundry for clothes line etc, this was discussed with Nathan.

We don't want to see the RL's change to keep the same gradient to the garage gradual.

Other questions we have are the following, Tiling range for bathrooms laundry etc, ceaser stone color range, full width Laundry bench instead of broom cupboard, face brick color range, cabinetry above fridge space as display, stair balustrade as display, shelving in butlers pantry as display, door handles range for cabinetry toilet suit range, full height tiling in powder rooms, window frame/sliding door color range, kitchen/bathroom cabinetry color range option for colorbond roof.

Thanks, Ross and Kate
